We have a duty to ensure compliance with the national curriculum and with the application of the programmes of study and attainment targets. We use the flexibility in the national curriculum to meet the needs and talents of the pupils in this school. We are aware that by providing the national curriculum, we are satisfying the requirements of a broad and balanced curriculum.

We believe that we give all of our children full access to the national curriculum and we enable them to achieve the highest academic and personal standards of which they are capable by providing them with challenges and the life skills that they need in order to take their place in society. We want all of our children to succeed.

We work hard to ensure our curriculum and teaching develops resilience and confidence by providing a curriculum that is ambitious for pupils, logically organised and sequenced within subjects and taught with effective pedagogy so that pupils gain a strong sense of progress and will grow in confidence.

We work hard to ensure that all children, whatever their background, receive the education they deserve; an education that sets up them to succeed. We believe in a curriculum that is coherent and well implemented.

We ensure that equality and diversity is embedded in all areas of the curriculum. We work hard to give pupils opportunities to explore prejudice and discrimination, and to positively explore difference in relation to race/ethnicity, religion/belief, gender, disability. We encourage pupils to develop positive attitudes about themselves as well as to people who are different from themselves.

We ensure that all pupils have equal and full access to learning and that the curriculum is inclusive of pupils with special educational needs and disabilities and pupils learning English as an additional language.

Eginton Primary School

We do not believe in teaching to the test and in drilling pupils through past papers, but in teaching a curriculum that will widen pupils' knowledge, skills and horizons as we feel a good curriculum leads to good results.

We agree with Amanda Spielman (Ofsted Chief Inspector) who states... 'there needs to be no conflict between teaching a broad, rich curriculum and achieving success in exams. A well-constructed, well-taught curriculum will lead to good results because those results will be a reflection of what pupils have learned'.

We provide for all children a broad and balanced curriculum that promotes their spiritual, moral, cultural, mental and physical development while preparing them for the opportunities, responsibilities and experiences in adult life in democratic Britain.

We see the development of English, Mathematics, Science and Computing as central to our curriculum work, balanced with the humanities and expressive arts. Also, the experiences of the children will be enriched by a range of planned extra-curricular activities.

We strive to provide a curriculum that all pupils will find enjoyable with them understanding the relevance of their lessons. This can only be achieved by using the experience, enthusiasm and specialism of individual teachers who provide interesting, relevant, purposeful and differentiated lessons based on real-life experiences, wherever possible, in a structured well-ordered classroom environment.

We ensure that teachers:

- 'have good knowledge of the subject(s) and courses they teach;
- have effective support for those teaching outside their main areas of expertise;
- present subject matter clearly, promoting appropriate discussion about the subject matter they are teaching;
- check learners' understanding systematically, identify misconceptions accurately and provide clear, direct feedback and in doing so, they respond and adapt their teaching as necessary, without unnecessarily elaborate or differentiated approaches;
- design their teaching to help learners to remember in the long term the content they have been taught and to integrate new knowledge into larger concepts;
- use assessment well in order to help learners embed and use knowledge fluently or to check understanding and inform teaching;
- create an environment that allows the learner to focus on learning;
- develop a rigorous approach to the teaching of reading in order to develop learners' confidence and enjoyment in reading;
- use reading materials at the early stages of learning to read that are closely matched to learners' phonics knowledge'.

Annually, we undertake a subject evaluation that is based on the following questions:

- How do we design and provide a curriculum that is broad and balanced for all pupils? (Curriculum intent)
- How do we deliver our curriculum through teaching, assessment and feedback? (Curriculum implementation)
- How do we assess pupil achievement through external tests/exam results and by our own school data? (Curriculum impact)

We all have a responsibility to ensure equality permeates in to all aspects of school life and that everyone is treated equally irrespective of age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex and sexual orientation. We want everyone connected with this school to feel safe, secure, valued and of equal worth.
